At a Regular Term of the Supreme Court of Appeals, continued and held at Charleston, Kanawha County, on April 3, 2023, the following order was made and entered:

Lawyer Disciplinary Board,
Petitioner

vs.) No. 22-569

Phillip R. Amick, a member of
The West Virginia State Bar,
Respondent

ORDER

On this date, April 3, 2023, the license to practice law in the State of West Virginia of the respondent, Phillip R. Amick, was annulled by voluntary consent in Supreme Court Docket No. 23-50. In that matter, the Office of Lawyer Disciplinary Counsel requested dismissal of this pending statement of charges.

The Court has granted the request to dismiss this statement of charges in light of the disbarment of Phillip R. Amick.

The Court reminds Phillip R. Amick and the Office of Lawyer Disciplinary Counsel that annulment of Phillip R. Amick's license to practice law in the State of West Virginia does not preclude sanctions in this matter or any other concurrent disciplinary matter. "As a general rule, the annulment of a lawyer's license to practice law does not moot or void sanctions imposed in relation to a prior or concurrent disciplinary matter unless the subsequent or concurrent annulment contains language specifically voiding other properly imposed sanctions." Syl. Pt. 5, Lawyer Disciplinary Board v. Tyson, No. 20-1027, 2022 WL 4017399 (Nov. 3, 2022 W.Va.)

It is ORDERED that this matter is dismissed from the docket of this Court.
